First National Center Kicks Off Renovation with Lt. Gov., Tenants

OKLAHOMA CITY-Milbank Real Estate, asset and property managers of downtown's historic First National Center, today announced that they have filed a $1.5 million permit for renovation of the landmark building. The renovation will include extensive interior remodeling of the Arcade level and the addition of a concierge stand and services for all tenants. An additional investment will go toward the construction of a new North entrance.

Lt. Gov. Jari Askins attended an afternoon celebration and broke first ground in the lobby with a jackhammering demonstration. First National Center tenants and community leaders attended an evening cocktail reception where renovation plans were on display in the building's Grand Banking Hall.

"We are excited to mark the new beginning of First National Center," said Emily Dobson, property manager for Milbank Real Estate. "The changes we are making will be visible, so everyone who enters First National Center will know that something big is happening."
